YOUR WEDDING DAY

Your wedding photographs and album are one of the most important aspects of your big day. The dress will be stored away, the flowers will fade, but through your photographs your memories will be captured forever for generations to come. All our albums are beautiful and of the highest quality, so whichever one you choose, you are guaranteed the perfect keepsake of your wedding day.

Coverage

Our approach to wedding photography combines traditional and informal styles, capturing a wide range of pictures for you to choose from. Attendance may start at the Bride's home or hotel if desired, the church or civil ceremony and then on to the reception, covering every moment of your day. Depending on the location of your reception venue, a stop-off at a local beauty spot may also be used to provide a beautiful setting for your pictures. These details will all be discussed in detail at your pre-wedding meeting.

Timing

Timing is an important factor in ensuring your day runs smoothly and according to plan. Sufficient time needs to be allowed between the ceremony and reception, along with any travelling time between venues and our extensive experience in this area means we can help you to plan this. This will also depend on the number of photographs required for your chosen package, and through your pre-wedding meeting we can tailor this to meet your requirements. At this meeting you will also have the opportunity to discuss any specific photographs such as particular groups of friends, a special place you would like to use or just a certain style. It is your day, and it is our aim to ensure you have a perfect one!

Booking

We only book one wedding per day, ensuring our full attention, without the pressure of needing to be elsewhere. Weekends are limited to just 52 a year and dates in the summer months are very popular. It is therefore essential to book as early as possible to avoid disappointment. Your exact package requirements are not needed upon booking as these can be discussed nearer to the date, but booking early gives you peace of mind knowing that your date is secure.

Visit our studio

A visit to the studio is advisable whenever possible, where you can browse through previous work undertaken, view albums and discuss your requirements. We are only too happy to help and will advise on any questions you may have.

A warm welcome awaits you!
